My life is falling away what is happening to everything I love

I cannot believe that what is happening to everything I love what?

I do not like this at all

I am through trying to please others and I just don't give a shit

I need something to help me forget

I cannot control my destiny

Life can be so difficult at times, when will it get easier and I will be able to laugh again?

Why must I be like the others that the others all do the same thing

I keep on trying to be like everyone else

I can think about anything I want

I am not like the others

I am through trying to please others and I just don't give a shit

I need something to help me forget

I cannot control my destiny
